Bazaar Mahalo

Dear Members and Friends,
I am so glad that we have this newsletter that goes out every month. It is the vehicle with which I can communicate to all of you about the incredible and wonderful events that take place at our temple. This month we had our annual Bazaar. Of course many of you were here for days preparing for this event so you already know how incredible it is. It is nearly unbelievable the amount of hours that so many of our members spend at the temple to make sure that this event is successful. And, it was successful. It is beyond words of "thank you" to express my heart felt admiration for all that you have done this year and in all the years past. The way we all work together and the fellowship feeds our souls and it brightens the lives of those that are witness to our Sangha. I know at the end of the day and the end of the WEEK with all the work, we are all tired and wonder if we can do it again. But in a couple of days after we are rested we start to remember the good fun parts and begin planning for next year and how to make it successful again. I talked to several people from the community that look forward to and plan for our Bazaar every year. For all of our friends and the community at large that came to support us, find treasures, and be entertained we thank you so much and hope to see you next year.
Aloha,
Jan

UHSSWA Conference

by Hilda Sugai

Twenty-one Daifukuji Fujinkai members and ohana attended the 41st Annual UHSSWA 2006 conference held at the Aiea Taiheji Soto Mission and the Pacific Beach Hotel in Waikiki on April 22 and 23. This year's conference theme was "Living with Compassion," an appropriate theme in today's wonderful but difficult world. This conference was Rev. Shuji and Mrs. Komagata's first conference experience since taking residency at Taiheiji. They did a great job getting involved and assisting their Fujinkai ladies.

Sixteen members and guests went a day earlier and rented two vans chauffeured by Joyce St. Arnault and by Renee Kimura.

We shopped at the Ala Moana Shopping Center and treated ourselves that evening to John Hirokawa's fantastic and scary magic show called "Magic of Polynesia."

Next morning we joined the other five Daifukuji members who had just arrived from Kona and others from Hilo, Maui, Molokai and Kauai to go on buses to Taiheji. The general membership meeting was then held, followed by the special donation drive (country store) at which all units sold the specialties of their island. We all scrambled and hustled to purchase Maui onions, Molokai bread, anthuriums from Hilo, Kona coffee and mac nuts, crafts from Honolulu units, etc. This fun event was one of the highlights of the conference. All proceeds from this fundraiser are forwarded to the UHSSWA.

The Saturday banquet featured Japanese dancing, taiko playing, singing, etc. Rev. Shuji was the speaker of the evening. He talked about his childhood days in Kona and the Kona group enjoyed reminiscing along with him.

The Dharma sessions presented by Martha Samson and Mel Hayase on Sunday were very inspiring. The farewell buffet luncheon was very ono with delicious desserts to top the final gathering of the conference.

Before going to the airport for our return to Kona, the Aiea Fujinkai ladies took us on a shopping spree to Marukai. Wow, we bought all kinds of food and goodies, many of which are not available in Kona.

Next year the UHSSWA conference will be held on Molokai. Let's all go to the Friendly Isle and enjoy the camaraderie with old and new friends.

The attendees to this UHSSWA conference:

Rev. Jiko Nakade, Mike Nakade, Delegate, Jean Ikeda, Delegate, Joyce St. Arnault, UHSSWA Recording Secretary, Beverly Arai, Jan Bovard, Myles Ikeda, Yoshiko Ikeda, Renee Kimura, Nancy Kurihara, Aileen Matsumoto, Miyeko Miyose, Chirio Miyose, Elsie and Bernard Mochizuki, Mary Nakagawa, Asako Nakamoto, Gale Nakamoto, Mary Park, Hild & Fusao Sugai, Lorraine Tanimoto, and Ella Yasuda.

Significance of the Toba

The word toba comes from the Japanese word sotoba, which came from stupa, a word which the people of India used to refer to the first Buddhist monuments or pagodas that housed the Buddha's relics. IF you look closely at a wooden toba, you would notice that the top part of the stick is carved out into five different shapes. These five shapes symbolize the five great elements: earth, water, wind, fire, and air, which correspond to different parts of the human body. In Buddhism, it is thought that not only is a person's body restored to these five elements after death, but that our very bodies are made up of these elements, which we can feel coursing through us, connecting us to the natural world around us at all times. We are, in other words, deeply connected to nature.

In Japanese, O means big, while ko means small. Therefore, o-toba means big toba, and ko-toba means small toba. The toba are prayer offerings made to family ancestors and deceased friends. At Daifukuji, o-toba are generally offered to both the husband's family ancestors and wife's family ancestors (Senzo Dai Dai) and to family members who passed away after last year's Obon and for whom this is the first Obon (hatsubon). Ko-toba, which are written on heavy white paper, are generally offered to other family ancestors and individuals whom one wishes to remember in prayer. Regardless of size, toba offerings are made in grateful remembrance of those who have passed away and are ways in which we express our love, respect, and gratitude to the departed at the time of Obon. When we remember to say thank you to our departed loved ones, we are also, in essence, saying thank you for the precious lives we are living today. To live humbly and gratefully is to live the Buddhist way. And so, toba offerings, which connect us to our ancestors, also serve to bring us gratefully back to the present moment.

What the Buddha Taught

Although my mother is no longer in this world, she has left me with gifts that continue to feed my spirit. Recently I picked up a book that I had not read in a long time and found on the inside cover, these words written in a familiar handwriting: To Mary Beth, From Mom With Gassho Nov. 17, 1981. On her trip to India in 1981, Mom purchased the book What the Buddha Taught by Walpola Sri Rahula and gave it to me as omiyage, a gift.

Reading it again today, I am moved by the beauty, practicality, and compassion of the Buddha's teachings. I wish to share with you a paragraph from this luminous work:

"Buddhism aims at creating a society where the ruinous struggle for power is renounced; where calm and peace prevail away from conquest and defeat; where the persecution of the innocent is vehemently denounced; where one who conquers oneself is more respected than those who conquer millions by military and economic warfare; where hatred is conquered by kindness, and evil by goodness; where enmity, jealousy, ill-will and greed do not infect men's minds; where compassion is the driving force of action; where all, including the least of living things, are treated with fairness, consideration, and love; where life in peace and harmony, in a world of material contentment, is directed towards the highest and noblest aim, the realization of the Ultimate Truth, Nirvana." (pp.88-89)

*I am truly grateful to my mother for having given me the most precious gift of Dharma.

Fujinkai Omamori Project

June 12 6:00 pm Social Hall

The Fujinkai will be making omamori out of lauhala and members are invited to a lauhala weaving workshop which will be taught by Renee Kimura and the lauhala weavers of Daifukuji. Omamori are Buddhist charms that are blessed with the energy of loving-kindness and wisdom at the New Year's blessing service and hung in vehicles or carried in one's purse to invite safety, peace, happiness, and wellness. Lauhala omamori are not only beautiful and fragrant, but also biodegradable and earth friendly. Please join us for an evening of lauhala weaving. Beginners are welcome.

Whoever offends an innocent person,
pure and guiltless,
his evil comes back on that fool himself like fine dust thrown against the wind.

Everyone, thank you very much for making our 2006 bazaar a success! I am truly grateful for all that you contribute to Daifukuji Soto Mission.

In Gassho, Jiko Sensei
